| The risk indicator assumes that you keep the product for the recommended holding period. The actual risk may be very different if you opt to exit before maturity, and you may get less in return. You may not be able to sell the product easily, or you may have to sell it at a price that will significantly affect the amount you receive in return. | | | | The synthetic risk indicator makes it possible to assess the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It indicates the probability that the investor will incur losses on the product in the event of a movement in the markets. We have classified this product in risk class 1 out of 7, which is the lowest risk class. In other words, the potential losses related to the future results of the product are at a very low level and, if the situation were to deteriorate on the markets, it is very unlikely that our ability to reimburse you will be affected. You are entitled to the return of at least 100% of your invested capital. This protection against future market performance does not apply in the event of an exit before the final maturity. If we are unable to pay you the sums due, you may lose all of the capital invested. | | |

This table shows how much you could get over 2,5 years, under different scenarios, assuming you invest EUR 10.000. The different scenarios show how your investment might perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on past data relating to variations in the value of this investment. They are not an exact indicator. What you get will depend on how the market moves, on the exercise or not of the "Call" by the issuer, as well as on how long you hold onto the investment or product. The stress scenario shows what you could get in extreme market situations, and does not take into account if we cannot pay you.

The figures shown include all costs of the product itself, but not necessarily all charges due to your advisor or distributor.
